PARITY FOR FAMILY TYPE FARMS URGED

Transfer of School District Is Asked Of County Board by Rural Parents

A GROUP OF RURAL PARENTS, unable to get into the office of the county school superintendent, waits outside the Court House while a delegation asked the County School Board to transfer part of the Miami Trace School district to the Washington C. H. district so their children can attend the Washington C. H. Schools.

Miami Trace Board Submits Plan For Shifting Students

The Fayette County Board of Education today was facing a two-pronged problem after hearing two sides of an explosive school controversy Saturday afternoon.

A delegation of the Rural Parents Association asked the board to transfer that portion of the Miami Trace School district from which students had been attending Washington C. H. High School to the Washington C. H. School District so their children could continue to attend the Washington C. H. High School.

Countering this appeal, the Miami Trace School Board and the Fact Finding Committee it had appointed appeared before the board to insist that "the decision... to transfer or not transfer... be arrived at calmly and judiciously in an atmosphere free of duress... by any group of citizens."

The "message" handed to the board also asked that the decision be arrived at "in the light of what constitutes the most good for the most people."

The Miami Trace Board and the fact finders, with Kenneth Bush; Donald Buck; Taylor Groff, president of the board; Harry Phillips, Jeffersonville principal, and W. W. Boyer, superintendent of the district, as the spokesmen, told the County Board most of the tuition students who had been attending Washington C. H. High School could be accommodated in the Jeffersonville High School by transferring some of the Jeffersonville elementary school classes to the Bookwalter School.

THE RURAL Parents Association, in a 6-part statement delivered to the County Board through its spokesman, Attorney F. Scott Zimmerman expressed doubt that a satisfactory curriculum or facilities could be provided in the Miami Trace District, cited the advantages of rural and city students going to school together and contended that "citizens of the tuition district should have the freedom of choice to determine what district they shall be a part of and in what district they shall pay taxes."

A spokesman for the Rural Parents Association said Monday that "we have no intention of giving up now... we intend to see this thing through."

Backing this up, the word was out that another meeting of the Association had been scheduled for Monday night and that one of the purposes was to complete the survey it made before the meeting.

It was said that of the 891 questioned (this was not a petition) 795 said they favored the transfer of the territory to the Washington C. H. district.

While the controversy swirled over the County Board, members of the city board kept on the sidelines, maintaining that this is now a problem that the people in the rural areas will have to settle themselves.

On the County board are H. B. Lightle, Carroll Ritenour, Hugh B. Sollars, Nathaniel Tway and C. C. Craig.

On the Miami Trace Board are Taylor Groff, Herbert Perrill, Richard Snider, Gordon Cowdery and Robert Owens.

On the City Board are Robert Terhune, W. A. Lovell, Charles Pensyl, Milbourne Fiee and Elmer Reed.

WHEN THE County Board will come up with an answer to their problem, is conjectural. President Lightle gave no indication of when it would act.

More than 200 pupils thronged to the Court House Saturday afternoon while the Fayette County School Board wrestled with a new phase of the old school controversy.

The board heard claims, pleas and open charges from both sides while a crowd of spectators waited. A few of them jammed into the tiny County Superintendent's office, but most of them crowded about doors and windows—look-on.

City Police forbid for "safety reasons", a parade of high school-age youngsters who had hoped to demonstrate that city and county boys and girls wanted to go to school together. But the youngsters joined their parents among the crowd of spectators at the three-hour meeting.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Agriculture subcommittee called today for a farm program which would give the small "family type" farmer government price supports at full parity.

Noting "disturbing reports" that the every day type of farmer is rapidly being eliminated and displaced by the commercial "factory" type farm operation, the subcommittee recommended a new legislative program.

"This program," it stated, "should begin by supporting the production of average family farm at full parity when the farmers agree to cooperate in a national policy gearing acreage to useful production and conserving and improving the soil against the needs of the future."

"This program should be open to all crops capable of administration in such a program. It would not be restricted to basic crops."

Parity is a price standard determined by law to be fair to farmers in relation to the cost of things they must buy. Price supports are now fixed at varying percentages of parity.

THE GROUP voiced belief the administration's "soil bank" would be of little direct benefit to the small farmer. It said he already is suffering from acreage cuts under federal controls, and will be forced to quit farming if required to take more land out of production.

The soil bank plan now pending in Congress would provide federal payments to farmers who cut planting of surplus crops below the acreage allowed them under marketing controls.

As a complement to the soil bank, the subcommittee recommended payments to farmers for complying with acreage allotments this year.

"Not many small farmers can afford to take out further acres" to qualify for soil bank payments, the subcommittee said.

Also recommended was restoration of price supports at 90 per cent of parity on basic crops subject to acreage controls this year, more credit from the Farmers Home Administration, expansion of market research activities, more liberal soil conservation payments, and a wide dispersal of industry to afford jobs for farmers as a supplementary labor market.

Most of these recommendations were considered, and some accepted, by the Senate Agriculture Committee in writing the omnibus farm bill now before Congress.

The subcommittee reported that as farm production capacity has increased, 600,000 farms have vanished between 1940 and 1954 with "factory in the field" commercial operations threatening to supplant entirely the family farm.

Rep. Clark W. Thompson (D-Tex.) headed the subcommittee.

Five Hospitalized By This Crash

FIVE PEOPLE were hospitalized as a result of this accident Saturday afternoon on Route 22 just over the line in Fayette County near New Holland. Mrs. Dolly Brown, driving the car at right, attempted to make a turn into the driveway of the Rathskeller and Eldon Huffman, Middlebourne, W. Va., was driving the other car that crashed into her auto.

Five people were hospitalized and two cars were badly damaged Saturday at 2:55 P. M. in a collision on Route 22 in the western edge of New Holland.

The injured, all of whom were cut and bruised and otherwise injured, were brought to Memorial Hospital in two ambulances from the Kirkpatrick Funeral Homes here and in New Holland.

According to Deputy Sheriff Robert McArthur, who investigated, the accident occurred when Mrs. Dolly Brown, 33, New Holland R.2 started to make a turn into the Rathskeller driveway, in front of a car driven by Eldon Huffman, 21, of Middlebourne, W. Va., who could not stop in time to prevent striking the car.

Charges will probably be filed against the driver of the Brown car, it was indicated by Deputy McArthur.

In addition to Huffman who was cut and bruised, others in his car were Mrs. Gladys Baker, 50, who sustained lacerations about the forehead and both legs and Eddie Baker, 21, and Phillip Baker, 8, who were not injured extensively.

Mrs. Brown sustained lacerations and bruises, Shirley Ann Jobe, 10, New Holland, sustained a right knee injury and Patty Ann Brown, 14, sustained lacerations and bruises and her left jaw was fractured in two places.

When the cars halted, the West Virginia car rear wheel was resting on Patty Ann Brown, and it was necessary to lift it from her before she could be taken to the hospital.

South Winds Warming Up Much Of U. S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Southerly winds brought warmer weather over the eastern portion of the nation today after much of the country experienced a sunny but chilly Easter.

The mercury rose an average of 10 to 15 degrees in the Southeast and as much as 20 to 30 degrees in the Ohio Valley and in the central portions of the Mississippi Valley.

While the warming trend pushed into the East, cooler temperatures prevailed over the area from Montana southward through Wyoming, Utah, western Colorado and Arizona.

The only areas east of the Continental Divide where the temperature did not reach 50 or better were the Northern Plains eastward through the upper Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes region and the New England states.

Ministers To Meet Thursday

Soil Stewardship Week And Rural Life Sunday Being Planned Here Now

Plans for Rural Life Sunday (May 6) and Soil Stewardship Week (May 6 to 12) in Fayette County today were beginning to take on definite form, although many of the details in connection with the observances remain to be taken care of.

Both Rural Life Sunday and Soil Stewardship Week which follows are nationwide in scope and both are sponsored through the United States Council of Churches and the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Rural Life Sunday has become an institution in Fayette County and has been generally observed by churches and rural organizations for several years.

Ministers, almost without exception, have keyed their sermons on Rural Life Sunday to rural life and farm organizations have developed programs along similar lines.

SOIL STEWARDSHIP Week is relatively new here, but it has the full support of the Fayette County Soil Conservation District and its board of supervisors behind it. The observance has very definite religious implications and for this reason the churches and clergy participate in it. A pamphlet put out by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service says of Soil Stewardship Week:

"The Creator placed in the soil all the elements necessary to provide sufficient food, shelter and clothing for every human being. He would create in His own image and likeness. Those who misuse the

Man Shoots Intruder, Then 'Baptizes' Him

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 35-year-old tavern keeper "baptized" a dying intruder yesterday after shooting him during a fight.

Charles Edelen was alone in his tavern when he heard a noise.

Grabbing his pistol, Edelen said he moved into one of the booths and watched a man crawl through a window. Edelen fired one shot at the floor and the intruder disappeared into the shadows.

When the tavernkeeper reached the window, the intruder began pummeling his shoulders and ribs with a claw hammer (the wound later required five stitches).

Edelen fired again and the burglar fell to the floor. He was dying, Edelen knew, on Easter morning.

"Have you been baptized?" asked Edelen, a Roman Catholic. There was only a rumbling noise in the man's chest.

Edelen ran for a cup of water, splashed it over the man's face. "I baptize you," he said, "in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

County Detective Joe Randazzo, arriving moments later, identified the intruder as Claude E. Hill, 35, a painter. Hill's wife said he wasn't a church member and hadn't been baptized.

Edelen, accused of manslaughter, was released on bond.

Hillsboro School Board Loses Supreme Court Race Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today rejected an appeal from an order calling for the immediate end of racial segregation in elementary schools of Hillsboro, Ohio.

The order was issued by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, but was held up pending action by the highest tribunal on an appeal filed by the Hillsboro school board.

The circuit court overturned a ruling by U. S. District Judge John H. Druffel of Cincinnati, refusing to grant an injunction which would have required admission of some 20 Negro children to the Webster-Washington school.

Druffel said the supreme court's 1955 opinion on the manner of ending segregation gave federal district judges the right to determine how soon integration would be achieved.

He found a program of integration being carried forward by the Hillsboro school board was in fact a "good faith" implementation of the abolishment of segregation. The program included building of two new schools and a goal of complete integration by Sept. 1.

The school board said some Negroes were attending the Webster-Washington school and the refusal to admit more was only because of lack of room. Negro children denied admission to the school have been getting private instruction in the present school year.

The circuit court said Druffel erred in denying an injunction, but it later agreed to a stay to allow the board to appeal to the supreme court.

The board's appeal—asking the court to review and overturn the circuit court order—said the record "clearly indicates that it is no stranger in accomplishing integration in a dignified and successful and unmarred manner."

Segregation had been practiced in Hillsboro for about 90 years, but the appeal stated:

"The board was well on the way of completely accomplishing its own program of integration without any incident when an effort to hurry it up by outsiders caused an incident on July 4, 1954—the only incident to date."

"This board is an expert, left to itself, in arriving at one hundred per cent integration without incident and the opinion of such a board that the spirit of the community is completely handleable by September 1956 is worth something to one who has never had the problem but merely had the problem of judicially appraising its good faith."

By refusing to accept the appeal for review the supreme court let the circuit court order stand.

However, the school board has 25 days in which to ask the supreme court to reconsider its action today. If it does this and takes the full time allowed the current school term might run out before there is final action in the case.

annually for Soviet machinery.

Easter Services Draw Thousands

Smiling Sun Grooms Easter Parade Here

New Easter costumes blossomed out here Sunday under the influence of the warm Spring sun and the balmy air as thousands of churchgoers throughout the county thronged to services commemorating the Resurrection of Christ.

A highlight of many services was the baptism of infants. In every church, special music and Easter messages marked the holiday.

Many congregations opened the day with special sunrise services, some held as early as 5 A. M. Easter morning breakfasts followed services in several churches in the city and across the county.

Additional services held during the afternoon and evening attracted hundreds of the faithful.

Others took advantage of the Spring air to leave their homes and visit friends and relatives, or just to motor down the highways. Heavy traffic rolled through the main routes in Washington C. H. all day Sunday.

IT WAS a great day for the youngsters. In addition to donning their new Easter finery, many youngsters ransacked their homes and yards for colored eggs and candy hidden by the Easter bunny.

And many a youngster remembering the day was April Fool's Day as well as Easter, caught his elders off balance with a prank.

The threat of rain, which the Weatherman had dangled over the heads of prospective Easter paraders, never was fulfilled. The weather was cheerful and cloudless all day; the rain held off until early Monday morning.

School Controversy

ent's Association (RPA) met with the board during the first half of the session and requested that the board transfer to the Washington C. H. school district all the real area from which tuition students had been attending Washington C. H. High School. They buttressed their plea with the results of a questionnaire, which showed that 795 out of 891 adults questioned wanted in to the city schools.

Immediately after their plea had been presented, the Miami Trace School Board and its Fact-Finding Committee told the board that Jeffersonville High School could accommodate the close to 230 high schoolers from the county that Washington C. H. said it could not admit next year.

The RPA spokesmen had previously said they felt there was "little likelihood" that the students could be accommodated elsewhere or, if they could be accommodated, that the accommodations would be satisfactory.

Blessed Events

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Passwaters of Mt. Sterling, are announcing the birth of a daughter, weighing six pounds, six ounces, 12:55 A. M. Monday in Doctors Hospital, Columbus.

and Mrs. Edwin Smith, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, entered Memorial Hospital, Saturday, suffering a broken elbow. She underwent surgery and was released Sunday afternoon.

Clarence Young, 111 West Elm Street, entered Memorial Hospital Saturday night for medical care and was released Sunday.

the likelihood" that the students could be accommodated elsewhere or, if they could be accommodated, that the accommodations would be satisfactory.

THE WASHINGTON C. H. school board had said that there would be no room next year for the tuition-paying county children. The move came shortly after a remonstrance petition circulated in the county had killed efforts to transfer a belt of county Miami Trace district to the city school district.

County board members said they "must study" the RPA's proposal before they could reach any decision. "You didn't expect a decision today did you?" County Board Member C. C. Craig asked the group.

"No, I suppose not," replied RPA member Grove Davis adding, "... but how soon? Ten days?"

"That seems like too short a time," Craig said.

All 14 of the spectator seats in the little room were filled. Spectators and newsmen from several cities had to stand or sit on the floor. Attorney F. Scott Zimmerman, representing the RPA, had to stand all through the session.

Zimmerman read the RPA's request that territory be transferred in a quiet, carefully-modulated voice. Reasons he gave included the improbability "that the district can provide satisfactory facilities," the uncertainty of a new building, the economy of such a measure and the advantage of having city and county youngsters attend school together.

ON THIS BASIS, the board was told, "we request that you transfer the tuition area to the Washington C. H. School District. We request prompt action—before any question of transfer is considered, or before any bond issue is made."

The plea was signed by Alfred Hagler, Preston Dray, Richard Babb and James McWilliams for the RPA.

Zimmerman also read a bulletin sent to rural parents, which pleaded for the transfer and claimed "we have been sleeping while a slow but certain stranglehold was being applied to our Fayette County educational institutions."

As the RPA delegation finished and the Fact Finding Committee entered the room, a momentary hassle developed over whether RPA members should be allowed to stay. Kenneth Bush, head of the fact finders asserted they should leave. One member said he thought it only "common courtesy."

The delegation vacated the seats in the room, but refused to leave, despite the pleas. One of the spectators, pointed out that it was unlawful to exclude them from an open meeting.

The fact finders asserted that the Jeffersonville School could accommodate the pupils. It was pointed out that elementary school classes now meeting in the Jeff High School could be moved to the Book-walter School, which, they said, has much extra space.

THIS WOULD leave, the fact finders asserted, 175 extra seats in the Jeff School—or enough to absorb the increase.

"We suppose that some students would choose to go to other schools outside the county," Miami Trace board president Taylor Groff said.

"The school could be fully accredited," Jeff Principal Harry Phillips said, adding "we could not graduate students unless it were."

"It would probably require the addition of no more than 5 or 6 teachers; perhaps only 3 or 4," Phillips said.

Some other changes would have to be made, the board said—like those mentioned in last week's fact-finder's report—but these were described as "not very considerable."

An industrial arts program would have to be added, it was said, but board members felt that this could be done.

County board members said the whole matter would have to be thought over and discussed before a decision could be reached. Washington C. H. School Board members would have to be reached, it was said.

NAMES and township residences of the signatories of the questionnaire were requested by the board, in order that they could be certain the signers lived in the affected area. The RPA demurred, saying that some signers might not want their names publicized, but agreed to gather as many names as they could.

"How many would convince you?" Grove Davis asked the board—"would a half do it?"

"I guess it would have to," County Board President B. C. Lightle said.

Of the information included in the RPA bulletin, Craig said he was amazed that so much could be gathered by non-official personnel.

"Where did you get your information from?" Craig asked.

Several RPA members answered: "It was gathered from several sources... we've brought it together over several months... some of it came from the City Board."

"Oh so the city board is behind this?" Craig snapped.

"No!" came the quick reply from the group. "This is our idea... we're the ones concerned... we're doing this on our own," were some of the replies.

"Well," Craig rejoined, "since the City Board locked the doors to the high school..."

County Superintendent W. J. Hilly, expressing his opinion of the city school's action described it as "cruel" and "amazing." This ultimatum was like a bolt out of a clear sky," he said. Members of the State Board of Education, when told of the move, had found it "almost unbelievable," he said.

Several of the rural parents commented that the City Board had been trying to persuade the County Board to work out their mutual problems together for the last six years and that many times the County Board had been told that exclusion of tuition pupils was a possibility.

In a letter sent out by the RPA, it was made plain that the rural parents do not blame the City Board for closing the doors to tuition pupils.

Plans for a demonstration and picketing by the RPA in front of the Court House, which had been rumored during the week, were blocked Friday by a joint order from Judge John P. Easter Services Draw Thousands

Smiling Sun Greets
Easter Parade Here

New Easter costumes blossomed out here Sunday under the influence of the warm Spring sun and the balmy air as thousands of churchgoers throughout the county thronged to services commemorating the Resurrection of Christ.

A highlight of many services was the baptism of infants. In every church, special music and Easter messages marked the holiday.

Many congregations opened the day with special sunrise services, some held as early as 5 A. M. Easter morning breakfasts followed services in several churches in the city and across the county.

Additional services held during the afternoon and evening attracted hundreds of the faithful. Others took advantage of the Spring air to leave their homes and visit friends and relatives, or just to motor down the highways. Heavy traffic rolled through the main routes in Washington C. H. all day Sunday.

IT WAS a great day for the youngsters.

In addition to donning their new Easter finery, many youngsters ransacked their homes and yards for colored eggs and candy hidden by the Easter bunny.

And many a youngster remembering the day was April Fool's Day as well as Easter, caught his elders off balance with a prank.

The threat of rain, which the Weatherman had dangled over the heads of prospective Easter paraders, never was fulfilled. The weather was cheerful and cloudless all day; the rain held off until early Monday morning.

School Controversy

ent's Association (RPA) met with the board during the first half of the session and requested that the board transfer to the Washington C. H. school district all the rural area from which tuition students had been attending Washington C. H. High School. They buttressed their plea with the results of a questionnaire, which showed that 795 out of 891 adults questioned wanted in to the city schools.

Immediately after their plea had been presented, the Miami Trace School Board and its Fact-Finding Committee told the board that Jeffersonville High School could accommodate the close to 230 high schoolers from the county that Washington C. H. said it could not admit next year.

The RPA spokesmen had previously said they felt there was "little likelihood" that the students could be accommodated elsewhere or, if they could be accommodated, that the accommodations would be satisfactory.

THE WASHINGTON C. H. school board had said that there would be no room next year for the tuition-paying county children. The move came shortly after a remonstrance petition circulated in the county had killed efforts to transfer a belt of county Miami Trace district to the city school district.

County board members said they "must study" the RPA's proposal before they could reach any decision. "You didn't expect a decision today did you?" County Board Member C. C. Craig asked the group.

"No, I suppose not," replied RPA member Grove Davis adding, "... but how soon? Ten days?"

"That seems like too short a time," Craig said.

All 14 of the spectator seats in the little room were filled. Spectators and newsmen from several cities had to stand or sit on the floor. Attorney F. Scott Zimmerman, representing the RPA, had to stand all through the session.

Zimmerman read the RPA's request that territory be transferred in a quiet, carefully-modulated voice. Reasons he gave included the improbability "that the district can provide satisfactory facilities", the uncertainty of a new building, the economy of such a measure and the advantage of having city and county youngsters attend school together.

ON THIS BASIS, the board was told, "we request that you transfer the tuition area to the Washington C. H. School District. We request prompt action—before any question of transfer is considered, or before any bond issue is made."

The plea was signed by Alfred Hagler, Preston Dray, Richard Babb and James McWilliams of the RPA.

Zimmerman also read a bulletin sent to rural parents, which pleaded for the transfer and claimed "we have been sleeping while a slow but certain stranglehold was being applied to our Fayette County educational institutions."

As the RPA delegation finished and the Fact Finding Committee entered the room, a momentary hassle developed over whether RPA members should be allowed to stay. Kenneth Bush, head of the fact finders asserted they should leave. One member said he thought it only "common courtesy."

The delegation vacated the seats in the room, but refused to leave, despite the pleas. One of the spectators, pointed out that it was unlawful to exclude them from an open meeting.

The fact finders asserted that the Jeffersonville School could accommodate the pupils. It was pointed out that elementary school classes now meeting in the Jeff High School could be moved to the Book-walter School, which, they said, has much extra space.

THIS WOULD leave, the fact finders asserted, 175 extra seats in the Jeff School—or enough to absorb the increase.

"We suppose that some students would choose to go to other schools outside the county," Miami Trace board president Taylor Groff said.

"The school could be fully accredited," Jeff Principal Harry Phillips said, adding "we could not graduate students unless it were."

"It would probably require the addition of no more than 5 or 6 teachers; perhaps only 3 or 4," Phillips said.

Some other changes would have to be made, the board said—like those mentioned in last week's fact-finder's report—but these were described as "not very considerable."

An industrial arts program would have to be added, it was said, but board members felt that this could be done.

County board members said the whole matter would have to be thought over and discussed before a decision could be reached. Washington C. H. School Board members would have to be reached, it was said.

NAMES and township residences of the signatories of the questionnaire were requested by the board, in order that they could be certain the signers lived in the affected area. The RPA demurred, saying that some signers might not want their names publicized, but agreed to gather as many names as they could.

"How many would convince you?" Grove Davis asked the board—"would a lot of it?"

"I guess it would have to," County Board President B. C. Lightle said.

Of the information included in the RPA bulletin, Craig said he was amazed that so much could be gathered by non-official personnel. "Where did you get your information from?" Craig asked.

Several RPA members answered: "It was gathered from several sources... we've brought it together over several months... some of it came from the City Board."

"Oh so the city board is behind this?" Craig snapped.

"No!" came the quick reply from the group. "This is our idea... we're the ones concerned... we're doing this on our own," were some of the replies.

"Well," Craig rejoindered, "since the City Board locked the doors to the high school..."

"They're not locked," responded the group, almost in unison, "they are only closed."

County Superintendent W. J. Hilly, expressing his opinion of the city school's action described it as "cruel" and "amazing." This ultimatum was like a bolt out of a clear sky," he said.

Members of the State Board of Education, when told of the move, had found it "almost unbelievable," he said.

Several of the rural parents commented that the City Board had been trying to persuade the County Board to work out their mutual problems together for the last six years and that many times the County Board had been told that exclusion of tuition pupils was a possibility.

In a letter sent out by the RPA, it was made plain that the rural parents do not blame the City Board for closing the doors to tuition pupils.

Plans for a demonstration and picketing by the RPA in front of the Court House, which had been rumored during the week, were blocked Friday by a joint order from Judge John P. Case and the County Commissioners Ralph Minton, Cliff Hughes and Robert Cock-erill. Saturday's crowd made no attempt at either, but remained orderly throughout the meeting.

Mary Haworth's Mail

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: We have been married almost 15 years. Mary is 33 and I am 39. We have three lovely children; the eldest is 10. Our marriage was most happy for eight years; and few men have been loved as Mary loved me—and I am sure she was perfect.

My childish stupidity was the cause of our grief. I am sure we drank, danced and ran around too much. We seemed to cultivate the friendship of bitterly unhappy couples, many of whom are now divorced. My drinking became excessive, which led to infidelity on my part.

In the spring of 1932 I stopped drinking completely, aware that my marriage and my health were in danger. But the damage was done; Mary's love was dead. In 1934 she filed for a divorce; then let the suit lapse and 10 months later we reconciled, resolved to straighten out our lives and make our marriage secure.

For nearly four years I have been a model husband. I don't drink and I shower affection and attention on Mary, with absolutely none in return. We have read some very good books—"The Sermon on the Mount," "Power Through Constructive Thinking" and "The Power of Positive Thinking"—which have helped me tremendously. And Mary contends she has forgiven my wrongdoing, but resentment and bitterness are still with her.

Mary insists upon maintaining friendships with unhappily married couples—one of whom is now in a divorce action. I have tried unsuccessfully, these four years, to induce her to forget such people. Is mental treatment needed by one or both of us? If so, what type do you recommend? We know little about such therapy. Mary knows of this letter and approves.

D. D. DEAR D. C.: Until 1932, perhaps you were more actively destructive than Mary, in the matter of spoiling your marriage. But even so, all along she was a neurotic incompetent in double harness. And since you've turned over a new leaf, in alarm, she has been vengefully noncooperative. This is the essential unconscious significance of her emotionally "dead" attitude—regardless of what she may "think" it means.

Maybe also she unconsciously feels relieved of the former strain of playing a part. Certain facets of your story indicate that Mary's growth as a person is blocked by a predominantly infantile emotional bias—of which she is unaware.

Her overall performance makes clear that she is compulsively dependent upon somebody other than herself to afford her a Way of Life. She rejects responsibility for herself—as in refusing to consult a marriage counselor or psychiatrist. When she was counting on you to be her "life" (figuratively speaking), to her satisfaction—as in the first years of marriage—she purported to be, and supposed she was, "utterly" in love with you.

But her "love" at that time wasn't love at all, in the mature or moral sense. Rather it was a turgid mixture of many neurotic clinging sentiments, all having to do with self-serving aims.

In any case, when Mary tired of the struggle for the upper hand, she also stopped being "in love." And did she then become susceptible to new "love"? Is that what sobered you up? Since your reform, perhaps she feels absolved of necessity to be "in love" to hold you. And it is noteworthy that she has a yen for unhappy couples. The psychoanalyst Dr. Edmund Bergler, author of "Divorce Won't Help" (Harper's) documents the affinity of neurotics for each other. Mary definitely needs analytic help, to progress from infantilism to womanhood.

Fayette County Chapter American Red Cross

April 2, 1956

TO ALL RESIDENTS OF FAYETTE COUNTY:

The RED CROSS makes an annual appeal for funds each year during the month of March. Funds to continue the operation of the local chapter are needed now, and your contributions will help insure the continuation of all services.

Do you know the RED CROSS helped more victims of disaster in 1955, than in any preceding year? Those who were helped were people the same as you and I, only less fortunate. We should be more willing to help, because it was not us.

The Fayette Chapter has records to show the aid extended to local service men over the years, and to their families, and most important to all of us, the BLOOD BANK:

If our 1956 quota is not reached and should we lose the BLOOD BANK program for our county everyone of us will be affected.

The BLOOD BANK is available to every citizen of Fayette County because of the RED CROSS.

With the re-organization of the local chapter this year we have people who are working for the good of the community, and for each of you. We are asking for your support in this worthwhile cause. Remember your contributions of $1 or more makes you a member.

If you have not been contacted by a volunteer solicitor, or if you have not made your contribution we ask that you do so at once. Just mail or bring yours to the headquarters at the First Federal Savings and Loan office at 134 E. Court St.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: We have been married almost 15 years. Mary is 33 and I am 39. We have three lovely children; the eldest is 10. Our marriage was most happy for eight years; and few men have been loved as Mary loved me—and I am sure she was perfect.

My childish stupidity was the cause of our grief. I am sure we drank, danced and ran around too much. We seemed to cultivate the friendship of bitterly unhappy couples, many of whom are now divorced. My drinking became excessive, which led to infidelity on my part.

In the spring of 1932 I stopped drinking completely, aware that my marriage and my health were in danger. But the damage was done; Mary's love was dead. In 1934 she filed for a divorce; then let the suit lapse and 10 months later we reconciled, resolved to straighten out our lives and make our marriage secure.

For nearly four years I have been a model husband. I don't drink and I shower affection and attention on Mary, with absolute none in return. We have read some very good books—"The Sermon on the Mount," "Power Through Constructive Thinking" and "The Power of Positive Thinking"—which have helped me tremendously. And Mary contends she has forgiven my wrongdoing, but resentment and bitterness are still with her.

Mary insists upon maintaining friendships with unhappily married couples—one of whom is now in a divorce action. I have tried unsuccessfully, these four years, to induce her to forget such people.

Is mental treatment needed by one or both of us? If so, what type do you recommend? We know little about such therapy. Mary knows of this letter and approves.

D. D.

DEAR D. C.: Until 1932, perhaps you were more actively destructive than Mary, in the matter of spoiling your marriage. But even so, all along she was a neurotic incompetent in double harness. And since you've turned over a new leaf, in alarm, she has been vengefully noncooperative. This is the essential unconscious significance of her emotionally "dead" attitude—regardless of what she may "think" it means.

Maybe also she unconsciously feels relieved of the former strain of playing a part. Certain facets of your story indicate that Mary's growth as a person is blocked by a predominantly infantile emotional bias—of which she is unaware.

Her overall performance makes clear that she is compulsively dependent upon somebody other than herself to afford her a Way of Life. She rejects responsibility for herself—as in refusing to consult a marriage counselor or psychiatrist. When she was counting on you to be her "life" (figuratively speaking), to her satisfaction—as in the first years of marriage—she purported to be, and supposed she was, "utterly" in love with you.

But her "love" at that time wasn't love at all, in the mature or moral sense. Rather it was a turgid mixture of many neurotic clinging sentiments, all having to do with self-serving aims.

In any case, when Mary tired of the struggle for the upper hand, she also stopped being "in love." And did she then become susceptible to new "love"? Is that what sobered you up? Since your reform, perhaps she feels absolved of necessity to be "in love" to hold you. And it is noteworthy that she has a yen for unhappy couples. The psychoanalyst Dr. Edmund Bergler, author of "Divorce Won't Help" (Harper's) documents the affinity of neurotics for each other. Mary definitely needs analytic help, to progress from infantilism to womanhood.

New Roller Now Ready For Use

City Gets Equipment After Many Years

The city's new road roller is now stored in the new machinery and equipment building at the extreme end of North Fayette Street, and the antiquated roller which the city had owned since "hector's granddaddy was a spotted pup" (about 25 or 30 years ago) was moved out by the company bringing in the new one.

The old roller was a Huber of eight tons capacity and had long been a source of aggravation to keep in repairs.

The new one is a Gallion, five to eight tons, with hydraulic torque converter, which makes it unusually easy to operate.

The new roller was purchased at an overall price of $5,830, as being the best bid, but the Gallion Company allowed $961 for the old roller, so the real cost of the new roller was $4,869.

The city has been in need of a modern roller for years, and the money for the new roller was appropriated some time ago, so it was a cash transaction in purchasing the roller, made possible by the special levy for street improvement and equipment buying, and careful management of the city's financial affairs generally.

High School Holds Easter Program

The last seven days in the life of Christ were depicted in a special program at the high school here.

The program was built around a script written by Thomas G. Mansell, head of the high school drama department, and featured hymns by the high school choir, directed by William B. Clift, Jr.

Robert Montgomery narrated the story of the events in the life of Christ from Palm Sunday through Good Friday to Easter.

The high school choir sang "King of Kings" to mark the part of the program devoted to Palm Sunday; "Were You There?" with a solo by Rance Foster, Good Friday; "Jesus Christ Has Risen Today," Easter.

Mansell closed the program with prayer.

Date Limit Later But Same Confusion Exists

With the near approach of April 15, the confusion of income tax paying this year probably will reach a new high.

Fayette County is a fairly accurate example of what is happening all over the country. Thousands of tax payers wait until the last few days to make their returns, some through habit, perhaps some through financial necessity.

Formerly the deadline was March 15, which was referred to often as the "Ides of March" coming down from the time of Julius Caesar up to today's present tax payers in this country. "T Day" sacred to the collectors of internal revenue just now has not as yet generally been called the "Ides of April".

We have changed the date line but not the event. April 15, 1956, will witness the perennial headache of tax returns and the last minute frantic preparation of the long delayed but inevitable Form 1040.

There is still much to be done towards solving the two big tax problems: (1) Reduction of taxes; (2) Simplification of the procedure. No one is ever more eager to cut taxes than the membership of Congress. It is not only popular. It is also an invariable stimulant to the national economy.

Taxpayers who come out of a year with more money in their pockets than they had in previous years put it into savings or spending. Both avenues are more satisfactory to them than federal spending. The problem of simplified forms still seems to defy our experts. The more they try to ease the strain, the worse it seems to get.

We are going to keep shooting at both targets. When we can cut federal spending, we simply have to do it. Unfortunately, the Communists' effort to keep the world on edge make our difficulties in this direction acute.

Maybe we ought to be thankful that most everybody is able to pay taxes, but none of us want them to be higher than is absolutely necessary and certainly they should not be. There is, and always has been some cause for criticism of unnecessary public spending, not only federal but most times also as to state or local taxes.

After all, however, the present high standard of American living and unusually favorable economic outlook do not appear to be permitting most Americans from bothering too much about their taxes. People appear more concerned during many past years about an equitable distribution of the tax burden. They fear that there are too many cases of those who find means of escaping payment of their just share.

Big City Blooms, Blossoms

NEW YORK (AP)—New York responds to a holiday like a spring flower to the sun.

On Easter, the city blooms and blossoms, dressed to the teeth in a new spring outfit, a perky little bonnet and a corsage of lilies. What if you can still see your breath in the frosty air? It's spring, the Easter Parade is at hand and our town likes to celebrate.

The avenues turn into galleries of color. They make you think of gold and alabaster, like the corridors of a palace.

As usual, the window decorators have a field day. They dress the stores with great banks of flowers, azaleas and hyacinths in a fury of color, and streamers of yellow and blue and purple paper, and golden chickens, and wonderful white rabbits as big as "Harvey," if you remember him.

I don't know which was more fun—

Watching the wonderment and delight in the eyes of a little girl when she saw the cascade of jelly beans, millions of jelly beans, all colors of the rainbow, in a candy-store window.

Or listening to two teen-agers in front of a foreign airlines window which features a bride in a glistening, diaphanous veil, and photographs of Grace Kelly and her prince. "Well, I don't care what anybody says, I think he's cute."

Then the sound of birds, twittering, pulled me up short. Birds on Fifth Avenue? The nearest tree was at least a country mile away, and besides it was too chilly for anything less than a penguin. Well, the song came from a loud speaker above a store front, and as you looked up a gay, happy sign was saying,

By Relman Morin
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

"Hello Spring."

Even a book store was all brightened up with "Easter eggs," made of the same crinkly colored paper you use at Christmas. And somebody had put a bright yellow daffodil in the binding of a book that, somehow, you seldom associate with daffodils—"The Decline of the West." It gave old Doc Spengler a real rakish look.

I was interested but puzzled as to whether there is a vogue in hats this year. Some are large, white and look like upside-down flower bowls. The girls say they make you look thin. Then there are some jaunty little confections, neat and close-fitting, with a pony or two. Still others made me think of flying saucers. It's a little confusing.

Just Some Things To Ask About

I always thought that whoever worked for the State Department was a diplomat or a consul or a clerk who coded and decoded messages. I had been accustomed to think of the State Department as being a foreign service, as looking after the international relations of the country, as trying to maintain the peace whereas the Department of Defense prepared for war.

But now I receive a complaint from the American Chemical Society that the State Department's scientific corps has deteriorated. Apparently, there used to be scientists in the State Department whose business it could have been to tell the Secretary of State what a molecule is, but alas! They have all been fired and now the Secretary of State will have no one to tell him what a molecule is except the Under Secretary of State who knew such things long before he became a diplomat.

Apparently — and most Americans, I am sure never heard of it — there was an international science steering committee which was headed by an engineer, Lloyd V. Berkner. This committee advised the State Department to have scientists in the State Department and as Berkner is a very distinguished man in his field, his advice was accepted, so 10 scientists were appointed to the embassies in London, Stockholm, Paris and Tokyo. What they did there, the mimeograph before me does not say, except that they were very important and the service should be continued.

It strikes me that with all the varied scientists available in the government, in universities and in private enterprise, if the government needs to get hold of one for some special purpose, as for instance, to prime the president on heavy water or plankton or something like that, it ought to be possible to pull the biggest authority on the subject out of a filing cabinet and bring him down to Washington or to send him abroad. It is like when the family doctor needs to convince you that you are very sick and you have serious doubts on the subject, he brings in a specialist who tells you that if you don't listen to him, you will surely die. The family doctor always knows the name and telephone number of an available specialist. It would seem to me that the administration in Washington could have similar information about all kinds of scientists.

Much of this excitement over scientists as diplomats undoubtedly arises from all this atomic business and the need for having someone around who can talk scientific jargon which is a language all on its own and requires considerable study even to be able to read a page in a chemistry or physics book. Everything since Einstein has been made so complicated that what one learned in his youth no longer helps much. So even if we had educated ambassadors, they would be stuck when they saw it all put out in Greek letters with parentheticals all around everything and little numerals on the side.

But it is possible to hire an expert to translate most of this stuff into English and even a foreigner will do, since now there are no more secrets, everything having either been stolen or given away.

But why fire only the scientists? There are all sorts of surplus baggage attached to every embassy, people who have nothing to do with our foreign relations but live abroad on an expense account and buy their cigars at an embassy PX. Some body ought to discover how these extra attaches have messed up American foreign relations because it would seem that wherever they are most numerous and spend the most money, the United States is most disliked by the natives.

In England, for instance, where we have an enormous staff and spend money all over the place, we are hardly understood by the populace at all, and I can recall listening to an argument on a street in London, after a political meeting, in the course of which a communist asked, "Who keeps bases in this country, the U. S. or the USSR?" And there was no one to tell him that those bases were there to keep England from being conquered.

So what do we have the attaches there for? What do they do for us? What do they tell the people?

Diet and Health

By HERMAN N. RUNDESEN
Obesity is a health hazard for anyone, but it presents a special problem for flyers.

This doesn't mean that stout passengers are in any danger while flying in our big commercial airliners with their pressurized cabins. However, the recent deaths of two passengers in Air Force jets following loss of pressurization at a high altitude, points up more of the dangers of being markedly overweight.

Two Victims
Both of the victims were overweight. Their deaths followed explosive decompression at an altitude of 30,000 feet. They went into shock upon loss of pressurization, were taken unconscious from the planes and died within a few hours.

Fatty tissue, you see, can easily dissolve nitrogen from the blood. At high altitudes, unfortunately, it may release this nitrogen the wrong way.

The bends, for example, might be caused by gas released at high altitudes.

Into Blood Stream
Even worse, these freed gas

Obesity Is Hazard; May Shorten Life

bubbles can push tiny particles of fat into the blood stream. From there they can be carried directly to the brain or heart and result in death.

This is one reason why pilots and crew members of Air Force planes are warned against becoming overweight.

You are considered overweight if you are 10 percent above the normal weight for persons of your age, height and body build.

Average Weight
And whether you are a flyer or not, the death rate among obese persons is about 50 percent higher than it is for persons of average weight.

Obesity definitely shortens your life expectancy. Yet about one fifth of our population is overweight. As you can see, it is a pretty big health problem.

The Nation Today

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, who has been around the world with a diplomatic fire extinguisher, should spray it on the Capitol. Some of the senators are burning.

They're hot because Dulles' aides and other government officials have refused to give the Senate Investigations subcommittee answers to these two questions on trade between American allies and the Communists:

(1) What items have been agreed to by this country as all right for its allies to sell to the Reds, and (2) who in the government took part in the recommendations leading to this agreement?

The questions have roots in the past.

During the Korean War, the allies had a tight embargo on trade with the Reds because then almost anything shipped them had strategic value—that is, helped their war potential—by filling a need, relieving pressure.

But by August 1954, the allies had an itch for trade. This country met with them in Paris. It was agreed many items formerly considered strategic could be taken off the embargo list and sold to the Reds. Restrictions on trade with Red China have been kept tighter.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), subcommittee chairman, said these agreements went to the "very destruction of peace and security" by making it possible for Russia to get goods which still should be treated as strategic.

His subcommittee called in Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., Secretary of Commerce John B. Hollister and Harold Stassen, President Eisenhower's assistant on disarmament.

In brief, these officials said it's none of Congress' business who in the executive branch made recommendations on the Paris agreements. This is the age-old protest against Congress intruding on the executive branch's internal operations.

The senators were told they could see secretly — but not make public — the list of goods taken off the strategic list at Paris. Why secretly? This was the reason given: U.S. allies — in part because of conflicting political factions in their own countries, some of them Communist — don't want disclosed their agreements on what can and can't be sold Russia.

Lavern J. Duffy, subcommittee investigator, testified that while he was refused details by this government on items taken off the embargo list he was able to get some information from debates in Britain's Parliament.

Eisenhower himself has said the Paris agreements were necessary to bolster allied economies — by finding a Russian market for their goods — and thus cut down on U.S. foreign aid expenses.

This year he asked Congress to vote almost five billion dollars in aid for American friends and allies.

McClellan, sore at the administration's stone wall, asked the Senate not to act on Eisenhower's foreign aid request until the subcommittee got some answers on foreign trade.

He said he is convinced the administration's "policy of secrecy"

is "designed for hiding errors, inefficiency, and the bad judgment of government officials."

Date Limit Later But Same Confusion Exists

With the near approach of April 15, the confusion of income tax paying this year probably will reach a new high.

Fayette County is a fairly accurate example of what is happening all over the country. Thousands of tax payers wait until the last few days to make their returns, some through habit, perhaps some through financial necessity.

Formerly the deadline was March 15, which was referred to often as the "Ides of March" coming down from the time of Julius Caesar up to today's present tax payers in this country. "T Day" sacred to the collectors of internal revenue just now has not as yet generally been called the "Ides of April".

We have changed the date line but not the event. April 15, 1956, will witness the perennial headache of tax returns and the last minute frantic preparation of the long delayed but inevitable Form 1040.

There is still much to be done towards solving the two big tax problems: (1) Reduction of taxes; (2) Simplification of the procedure. No one is ever more eager to cut taxes than the membership of Congress. It is not only popular. It is also an invariable stimulant to the national economy.

Taxpayers who come out of a year with more money in their pockets than they had in previous years put it into savings or spending. Both avenues are more satisfactory to them than federal spending. The problem of simplified forms still seems to defy our experts. The more they try to ease the strain, the worse it seems to get.

We are going to keep shooting at both targets. When we can cut federal spending, we simply have to do it. Unfortunately, the Communists' effort to keep the world on edge make our difficulties in this direction acute.

Maybe we ought to be thankful that most everybody is able to pay taxes, but none of us want them to be higher than is absolutely necessary and certainly they should not be. There is, and always has been some cause for criticism of unnecessary public spending, not only federal but most times also as to state or local taxes.

After all, however, the present high standard of American living and unusually favorable economic outlook do not appear to be permitting most Americans from bothering too much about their taxes. People appear more concerned during many past years about an equitable distribution of the tax burden. They fear that there are too many cases of those who find means of escaping payment of their just share.

Big City Blooms, Blossoms

NEW YORK (AP)—New York responds to a holiday like a spring flower to the sun.

On Easter, the city blooms and blossoms, dressed to the teeth in a new spring outfit, a perky little bonnet and a corsage of lilies. What if you can still see your breath in the frosty air? It's spring, the Easter Parade is at hand and our town likes to celebrate.

The avenues turn into galleries of color. They make you think of gold and alabaster, like the corridors of a palace.

As usual, the window decorators have a field day. They dress the stores with great banks of flowers, azaleas and hyacinths in a fury of color, and streamers of yellow and blue and purple paper, and golden chickens, and wonderful white rabbits as big as "Harvey," if you remember him.

I don't know which was more fun—

Watching the wonderment and delight in the eyes of a little girl when she saw the cascade of jelly beans, millions of jelly beans, all colors of the rainbow, in a candy-store window . . .

Or listening to two teen-agers in front of a foreign airlines window which features a bride in a glistening, diaphanous veil, and photographs of Grace Kelly and her prince . . . "Well, I don't care what anybody says, I think he's cute."

Then the sound of birds, twittering, pulled me up short. Birds on Fifth Avenue? The nearest tree was at least a country mile away, and besides it was too chilly for anything less than a penguin. Well, the song came from a loud speaker above a store front, and as you looked up a gay, happy sign was saying, "Hello Spring."

Even a book store was all brightened up with "Easter eggs," made of the same crinkly colored paper you use at Christmas. And somebody had put a bright yellow daffodil in the binding of a book that, somehow, you seldom associate with daffodils—"The Decline of the West." It gave old Doc Spengler a real rakish look.

I was interested but puzzled as to whether there is a vogue in hats this year. Some are large, white and look like upside-down flower bowls. The girls say they make you look thin. Then there are some jaunty little confections, neat and close-fitting, with a posy or two. Still others made me think of flying saucers. It's a little confusing.

Just Some Things To Ask About

By George Sokolsky

I always thought that whoever worked for the State Department was a diplomat or a consul or a clerk who coded and decoded messages. I had been accustomed to think of the State Department as being a foreign service, as looking after the international relations of the country, as trying to maintain the peace whereas the Department of Defense prepared for war.

But now I receive a complaint from the American Chemical Society that the State Department's scientific corps has deteriorated. Apparently, there used to be scientists in the State Department whose business it could have been to tell the Secretary of State what a molecule is, but alas! They have all been fired and now the Secretary of State will have no one to tell him what a molecule is except the Under Secretary of State who knew such things long before he became a diplomat.

Apparently — and most Americans, I am sure never heard of it — there was an international science steering committee which was headed by an engineer, Lloyd V. Berkner. This committee advised the State Department to have scientists in the State Department and as Berkner is a very distinguished man in his field, his advice was accepted; so 10 scientists were appointed to the embassies in London, Stockholm, Paris and Tokyo. What they did there, the mimeograph before me does not say, except that they were very important and the service should be continued.

It strikes me that with all the varied scientists available in the government in universities and in private enterprise, if the government needs to get hold of one for some special purpose, as for instance, to prime the president on heavy water or plankton or something like that, it ought to be possible to pull the biggest authority on the subject out of a filing cabinet and bring him down to Washington or to send him abroad. It is like when the family doctor needs to convince you that you are very sick and you have serious doubts on the subject, he brings in a specialist who tells you that if you don't listen to him, you will surely die. The family doctor always knows the name and telephone number of an available specialist. It would seem to me that the administration in Washington could have similar information about all kinds of scientists.

Much of this excitement over scientists as diplomats undoubtedly arises from all this atomic business and the need for having someone around who can talk scientific jargon which is a language all on its own and requires considerable study even to be able to read a page in a chemistry or physics book. Everything since Einstein has been made so complicated that what one learned in his youth no longer helps much. So even if we had educated ambassadors, they would be stuck when they saw it all put out in Greek letters with parentheticals all around everything and little numerals on the side.

But it is possible to hire an expert to translate most of this stuff into English and even a foreigner will do, since now there are no more secrets, everything having either been stolen or given away.

But why fire only the scientists? There are all sorts of surplus baggage attached to every embassy, people who have nothing to do with our foreign relations but live abroad on an expense account and buy their cigars at an embassy PX. Somebody ought to discover how these extra attaches have messed up American foreign relations because it would seem that wherever they are most numerous and spend the most money, the United States is most disliked by the natives.

In England, for instance, where we have an enormous staff and spend money all over the place, we are hardly understood by the populace at all, and I can recall listening to an argument on a street in London, after a political meeting, in the course of which a communist asked, "Who keeps bases in this country, the U. S. or the U.S.S.R.?" And there was no one to tell him that those bases were there to keep England from being conquered.

So what do we have the attaches there for? What do they do for us? What do they tell the people?

Diet and Health

Obesity Is Hazard; May Shorten Life

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Obesity is a health hazard for anyone, but it presents a special problem for flyers.

This doesn't mean that stout passengers are in any danger while flying in our big commercial airliners with their pressurized cabins. However, the recent deaths of two passengers in Air Force jets following loss of pressurization at a high altitude, points up more of the dangers of being markedly overweight.

Two Victims

Both of the victims were overweight. Their deaths followed explosive decompression at an altitude of 30,000 feet. They went into shock upon loss of pressurization, were taken unconscious from the planes and died within a few hours.

Fatty tissue, you see, can easily dissolve nitrogen from the blood. At high altitudes, unfortunately, it may release this nitrogen the wrong way.

The bends, for example, might be caused by gas released at high altitudes.

Into Blood Stream

Even worse, these freed gas

bubbles can push tiny particles of fat into the blood stream. From there they can be carried directly to the brain or heart and result in death.

This is one reason why pilots and crew members of Air Force planes are warned against becoming overweight.

You are considered overweight if you are 10 percent above the normal weight for persons of your age, height and body build.

Average Weight

And whether you are a flyer or not, the death rate among obese persons it is about 50 percent higher than it is for persons of average weight.

Obesity definitely shortens your life expectancy. Yet about one-fifth of our population is overweight. As you can see, it is a pretty big health problem.

The Nation Today

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles, who has been around the world with a diplomatic fire extinguisher, should spray it on the Capitol. Some of the senators are burning.

They're hot because Dulles' aides and other government officials have refused to give the Senate Investigations subcommittee answers to these two questions on trade between American allies and the Communists:

- (1) What items have been agreed to by this country as all right for its allies to sell to the Reds, and (2) who in the government took part in the recommendations leading to this agreement?

The questions have roots in the past. During the Korean War, the allies had a tight embargo on trade with the Reds because then almost anything shipped them had strategic value—that is, helped their war potential—by filling a need, relieving pressure.

But by August 1954, the allies had an itch for trade. This country met with them in Paris. It was agreed many items formerly considered strategic could be taken off the embargo list and sold the Reds. Restrictions on trade with Red China have been kept tighter.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), subcommittee chairman, said these agreements went to the "very destruction of peace and security" by making it possible for Russia to get goods which still should be treated as strategic.

His subcommittee called in Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., Secretary of Commerce Weeks, Foreign Aid Director John B. Hollister and Harold Stassen, President Eisenhower's assistant on disarmament.

In brief, these officials said it's none of Congress' business who in the executive branch made recommendations on the Paris agreements. This is the age-old protest against Congress intruding on the executive branch's internal operations.

The senators were told they could see secretly — but not make public — the list of goods taken off the strategic list at Paris. Why secretly? This was the reason given: U.S. allies — in part because of conflicting political factions in their own countries, some of them Communist — don't want disclosed their agreements on what can and can't be sold Russia.

Lavern J. Duffy, subcommittee investigator, testified that while he was refused details by this government on items taken off the embargo list he was able to get some information from debates in Britain's Parliament.

Eisenhower himself has said the Paris agreements were necessary to bolster allied economies—by finding a Russian market for their goods—and thus cut down on U.S. foreign aid expenses.

This year he asked Congress to vote almost five billion dollars in aid for American friends and allies.

McClellan, sore at the administration's stone wall, asked the Senate not to act on Eisenhower's foreign aid request until the subcommittee got some answers on foreign trade.

He said he is convinced the administration's "policy of secrecy"

is "designed for hiding errors, inefficiency, and the bad judgment of government officials."

Good Friday Proves Really Good For Boy

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—David Massey, a shy, black-haired 10-year-old, found a new life on a Good Friday that started out to be the darkest day in his life.

The youngster found his mother dead in her bed when he went to rouse her for breakfast.

Mrs. Maude Massey, 41, who suffered from rheumatic fever for many years, was the last person the boy had. Other relatives had large families and couldn't take care of him.

David faced life as an orphan.

Then city patrolman E. R. Forister was sent to investigate the death. The boy and the policeman sat down for a long talk. At the end there was handshake and David had a family.

Forister and his wife, who have never been able to have children during their 17 years of marriage, decided to adopt David.

There was one problem. "We've got a dog for you," Forister told David. "But the dog's name also is David. We'll have to change the name of one of you."

Cox Named MVP At Wilmington

Former WHS Athlete Is Hoopster's Best

A former Washington C. H. star athlete has been named most valuable player of the year on the Wilmington College basketball team.

Charles Cox, a sophomore at Wilmington and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cox of 724 Sycamore Street here, received the school's Carr Brothers Trophy, given annually to the most valuable player at Wilmington.

A student at Washington C. H. High School for three years, Charles left here in 1953 to attend Wilmington. He was graduated from the high school here in 1954, after he had finished his first year there.

First string center for the Wilmington quintet, Charley averaged close to 17 points and 14 rebounds a game for the squad this season.

Besides winning the award, Cox got his second straight varsity "W" from the school—he got his first during his first year when most college ball players are still playing with junior varsity squads.

Cox is majoring in history and physical education at Wilmington.

Globetrotters Skin All-Star Collegiate '5'

NEW YORK — The famed Harlem Globetrotters and the College All-Stars moved on to Boston today with the Globetrotters holding a two-game margin after starting their cross-country tour with afternoon and night victories in Madison Square Garden.

The Globetrotters won the afternoon game yesterday 61-52 and took the nightcap 72-64.

Ron Sobieszczyk of DePaul, Joe Holup of George Washington and All-America Robin Freeman of Ohio State paced the collegians in the matinee contest. Sobieszczyk had 10 and Holup and Freeman nine each.

Tom Heinsohn, Holy Cross' All-America, was the All-Stars' big gun at night, scoring 16 points.

One of the big surprises was the appearance of Michigan State's Julius McCoy in the All-Star lineup. Originally, McCoy along with Duquesne's St. Green, Heinsohn and Sobieszczyk and had been declared ineligible by the AAU for Saturday's east-west game. The AAU claimed their announced intention of playing against the Globetrotters made them professionals.

Later, however, McCoy convinced the AAU he had no pro tieups and was permitted to play in the benefit game.

Ailing Early Wynn May Miss Tour

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — Early Wynn, who has been laid up with an infected finger, may miss his turn on the mound for the Cleveland Indians when the Tribe meets the New York Giants here today on the first stop of their barnstorming tour through the southwest. He has not been in uniform for two days.

The Indians and Giants are not expected to draw the crowds they did last year when they packed them in at every stop in what amounted to a replay of the 1954 World Series.

Other stops on this year's tour will include Lubbock, Austin, Corpus Christi, Houston and Dallas in Texas, Shreveport, La., Louisville, Ky., and Indianapolis.

Finsterwald Gets Nod Into Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Professional Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio, drew a bid Sunday to the Masters Golf Tournament which opens here Thursday.

Finsterwald, not otherwise eligible for the blue-ribbon Masters, was named by the Professional Golfers Assn. for his top-flight showing during the winter tour.

Finsterwald played here as an amateur in 1951 when he was on the Walker Cup team.

Finsterwald, through the St. Petersburg Open, was the sixth leading money winner on the winter tour with $5,801.84.

Silvera Tagged Redleg Catcher

TAMPA, Fla. — Al Silvera was an outfielder when he signed last June as a bonus player with the Cincinnati Redlegs. But now his future lies in catching.

"The day Birdie Tebbetts handed me the catching equipment was the best day of my life," he said.

The 20-year-old West Coast native has already worked as receiver in exhibition games this spring, and Manager Tebbetts said he was amazed at Silvera's adaptation to the post.

"He looks as though he has been a catcher all of his life," Tebbetts said.

Only unbeaten man on Dartmouth's freshmen squash team in 1956 was Dick Hoehn. His father is Edward G. Hoehn, varsity and freshmen coach.

MRS. CAL EATON shouts "We have been robbed" as she runs out of the Los Angeles hearing room during a session of the California boxing probe. Mrs. Eaton, wife of the Olympic Auditorium boxing promoter, had just been informed that the arena was robbed of more than $26,000. Her son was slugged and gagged by the holdup men.

One of the most frequent questions asked of Ohio's Fish Management Section is "how to properly stock and manage fish in farm ponds."

For the past few years these requests have increased to the point where the Division of Wildlife felt a specific study should be made in order to find the facts relating to proper stocking and management.

Four years ago, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service completed a number of one-acre ponds at the Hebron Fish Farm. Eighteen of these ponds were made available to the Division of Wildlife for study and experimentation. The ponds are being used for the establishment of correct stocking procedures, with certain numbers sizes, species, various combinations and at certain times of the year.

Specific work being carried on under this project includes experiments with stocking rates of bass and blue gills, times of stocking and the ability of some other predator type game fish to correct ponds which may get out of balance.

While the data obtained thus far has no doubt been interesting and informative to the technical fisheries worker, the conclusions reached have been of little value to the farm pond owner as no fish have been permitted up to this time in these experimental ponds. All fish removed have been by artificial means, using seines, nets, etc.

WITH THE initial part of the farm pond study completed, the Division of Wildlife will carry on the second phase of the program beginning about May 1, at which time the public will be permitted to fish in three five-acre ponds, which have been stocked with bass and bluegills.

These three ponds are located at the Hebron Fish Farm. While no boats will be permitted, the ponds are so constructed that most of the water can be fished from the bank. Liberalized fishing will be in effect, which means no length limit, no daily limit and no bag limit.

Fish management personnel are hoping the public will take advantage of this opportunity to enjoy some fine fishing and in addition help provide important information for our future farm pond program.

Fishermen should keep in mind that the ponds will not be open until about May 1. A public announcement will be made concerning opening date, after approval by the Ohio Wildlife Council.

BY POPULAR demand and as an additional service to Ohio's fishermen, the Ohio Division of Wildlife will again furnish a weekly lake and stream condition report to the four major wire services in the state. Beginning April 4, the report will be filed each Wednesday with the wire services in order that fishermen may make definite plans for their week-end fishing trips. The reports will continue each week until Labor Day.

Ohio U. Golfers Lead 4-Way Test

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. — Ohio University, with Don Todd of Dayton shooting a one-under-par 69, took the lead yesterday in a four-way golf match with Colgate, Denison, and Washington & Lee.

Ohio led with 12 points, Colgate had 10½, Denison 8 and Washington & Lee 5½ after the first 18 holes of a 36-hole match.

Training Camp News Briefs

PHOENIX, ARIZ. — Eddie Miksis of the Chicago Cubs may be the jack-of-all-trades and master-of-none but he's sure of a job. Miksis has played every position on the field with the exception of pitcher and catcher, doing a good job wherever he's played.

And manager Stan Hack is aware of it. "It's very comforting to know he's around," says Hack. "No matter where an emergency arises, you know that Miksis can do a bang-up job for you."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Southpaw Billy Pierce, a likely opening day hurler, will try to become the second Chicago White Sox pitcher to go a full nine innings.

Pierce will face the St. Louis Cardinals here today in the first of a seven-state, 11-game exhibition swing northward between the two teams.

Jack Harshman, already has turned in a nine-inning job.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Manager Paul Richards left Sunday on a West Coast scouting mission in search of talent for his faltering Baltimore Orioles.

Richards said he intended to visit several West Coast training camps, talk with Oriole scouts and personally look over several high school and college players before rejoining the club later in the week.

The Orioles, whose 6-15 spring training record is the worst among the 16 major league teams, will practice today and Tuesday before breaking camp for the barnstorming trip home against the Chicago Cubs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — The St. Louis Cardinals are grateful they won't have to bat against Mickey McDermott of the New York Yankees during the regular season.

In three games and 17 innings, the Redbirds managed just 14 hits and two earned runs off the former Washington Senator southpaw.

Yogi Berra clubbed a triple and single for three runs batted in off Ben Flowers and the victory margin in a 5-2 game which cooled off the St. Louis club, winner of 10 out of its previous 11 games.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The New York Giants started their long trip home from spring camp today, hooking up in the first of 11 games with the Cleveland Indians en route north.

The Giants finished their spring camp stand with a 13-9 record, right behind the 14-8 mark hung up by the Tribe, who won the Cactus League crown, and are 6-3 against the Giants so far.

ORLANDO, Fla. — Infielder Andy Carey is the latest member of the New York Yankees injury-a-day club. He suffered a bruised knuckle when hit on the right hand by a pitch during batting practice. Mickey Mantle was in uniform Sunday, but wasn't used as the Yanks beat St. Louis 5-2. Mantle reinjured a leg muscle last week.

SARASOTA, Fla. — Charley Neal, up from Montreal, is making a big bid for second base with the Brooklyn Dodgers in the field, but he's unimpressive at the plate. In Sunday's 4-3 decision over the Chicago White Sox in 11 innings, for instance, he handled 10 chances without error, but was hitless in six at bats — striking out three times.

Boxer Dog Wins International

CHICAGO — Ch. Barrage of Quality Hill, a boxer, was judged best-in-show last night at the International Kennel Club All-Breed Dog Show.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jovett Shouse of Washington, D. C., the 2½-year-old boxer scored his 14th best-in-show triumph.

Barrage, a son of Ch. Bangaway of Sirrah Crest, biggest winner in U. S. dog history, put an end to a string of three straight triumphs scored by Ch. Wilber White Swan, toy poodle owned by Mrs. Bertha Smith of Bethpage, N. Y.

WHEN FISHING WATERS WHERE BOTTOM IS MOSSY OR WEEDY, RETRIEVE BAIT AS CLOSE TO THE BOTTOM AS POSSIBLE

A GOOD METHOD TO DETERMINE WHEN TO RETRIEVE IS TO COUNT OFF SECONDS STARTING WHEN THE BAIT HITS THE WATER. AFTER THE CAST, CONTINUE COUNTING UNTIL THE LURE IS FOULED, CAST AGAIN BUT REDUCE THE COUNT AND START RETRIEVING. YOUR LURE WILL BE SKIRTING OVER THE MOSS.

FLY LINES REQUIRE CONSTANT CARE

Electronic Gadget Causes Uproar In Swimming Meet

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — New world, American and meet records came out of the 33rd NCAA swimming meet, but the item that got most attention was the machine.

The machine was a device set up to record the finishes in Yale's Payne Whitney Gym and it nearly caused the judges to quit.

An electronic device developed at the University of Michigan, the machine was used with success in the Big Ten Championships during the past year.

And it was doing okay here until Friday night when it called a tie — a rarity in this event — between Yale's Rex Aubrey and Stanford's Robin Moore in the 50-yard sprint.

Chief judge Bob Muir picked the three first place judges picked Aubrey as the winner, "but we had decided in advance to go along with the machine, and in this case, the machine showed a dead heat."

Muir said the machine "definitely goofed" later that night in the butterfly stroke race, but he added "the mistake was obvious since (Dick) Faden won by a clear margin."

The machine found itself in real trouble with the judges after the 100-yard sprint Saturday night. The machine picked Al Kuhn of Northwestern; the judges Aubrey.

The judges threatened to quit then but were placated when Muir announced, "we're tossing the machine out from now on."

The machine notwithstanding, these were the highlights of the three-day event:

George Breen of Cortland (N.Y.) State Teachers set a new world record in the 1500-meter swim (8:05.9) on Thursday.

Coach Believes Collegians To Be OK In Olympic Trials

NEW YORK — Bucky O'Connor of Iowa, coach of the hand-picked college squad, is confident the collegians will give a good account of themselves against the best of the Amateur Athletic Union and armed services have to offer in next week's Olympic basketball trials at Kansas City.

"They have jelled rapidly in the last three or four days," said O'Connor today after the collegians wound up practice for tonight's East-West game, sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune's Fresh Air Fund, at Madison Square Garden.

O'Connor, who piloted the Hawkeyes to the Big Ten title and runnerup in San Francisco in the NCAA national championships, has been working All-America Bill Russell and K. C. Jones of San Francisco, UCLA's Willie Naulls, Iowa's Carl Cain and Illinois' Paul Judson as his first string unit.

"They have looked very well in workouts, surprisingly so considering the short time they have been together as a unit," said O'Connor. "It's likely to be my starting five at Kansas City."

O'Connor leans towards 7-foot Bill Uhle and Jim Paxson of Dayton, Hal Lear of Temple, Vic Moldet of North Carolina State and either Gary Bergen of Utah or Bob Burrow of Kentucky as his second team. Bergen plays with the West tonight. All the others are on the East team.

Bill Reigel of McNeese State, Jack McCarthy of Canisius and Chuck Rolles of Cornell complete the Olympic squad.

Four players, including two All-Americans, were declared ineligible for the East-West game yesterday because they have announced their intentions of turning pro. The AAU said announcement of their intention constitutes a violation of the AAU code.

The four are St. Green, Duquesne and Tom Heinsohn, Holy Cross, Ron Sobieszczyk, DePaul and Julius McCoy, Michigan State.

Pro Cagers Deadlocked In Playoff

FORT WAYNE, Ind. — Fort Wayne and Philadelphia, thanking rookies for their one notch each on the victory stick, had the day off today from their best-of-seven championship series for the National Basketball Assn. title.

They meet again at Philadelphia tomorrow night.

The Warriors, playing for a closing second shot in last night's tilt at Fort Wayne, had the ball stolen by rookie Corky Devlin and lost the game 84-83.

For Fort Wayne fans, the sentimental favorite of the home court victory was Bob Houbregs. Although he had suffered a broken nose in Philadelphia, he played with a mask, scoring five points as he relieved at center.

In the first game Saturday, Philadelphia had trailed, 37-22, until Ernie Beck supplied the needed drive to push the Warriors on to a 98-94 victory. Fort Wayne, on the other hand, won its game by pecking away at narrow Warrior leads and by Devlin's interception, which deflated Philadelphia 28 seconds before the buzzer.

Michigan State's intramural athletic program annually includes more than 8,500 students in 27 activities.

MEN - WOMEN

from ages 18 to 51. Prepare now for U. S. Civil Service job openings in this area during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay as high as $350.00 a month to start.

They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

LINCOLN SERVICE, Dept. 95
Pekin, Illinois

I am very much interested. Please send me absolutely FREE (1) A list of U. S. Government positions and salaries; (2) Information on how to qualify for a U. S. Government Job.

Pro Cagers Deadlocked In Playoff

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Fort Wayne and Philadelphia, thanking rookies for their one notch each on the victory stick, had the day off today from their best-of-seven championship series for the National Basketball Assn. title.

They meet again at Philadelphia tomorrow night.

The Warriors, playing for a closing second shot in last night's tilt at Fort Wayne, had the ball stolen by rookie Corky Devlin and lost the game 84-83.

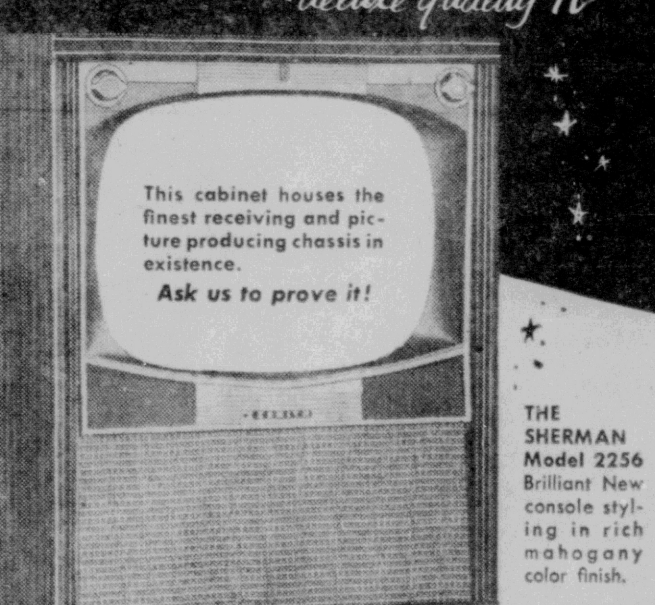

For Fort Wayne fans, the sentimental favorite of the home court victory was Bob Houbregs. Although he had suffered a broken nose in Philadelphia, he played with a mask, scoring five points as he relieved at center.

In the first game Saturday, Philadelphia had trailed, 37-22, until Ernie Beck supplied the needed drive to push the Warriors on to a 98-94 victory. Fort Wayne, on the other hand, won its game by pecking away at narrow Warrior leads and by Devlin's interception, which deflated Philadelphia 28 seconds before the buzzer.

Michigan State's intramural athletic program annually includes more than 6,500 students in 27 activities.

Try At Thrift Costs Man's Life

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UP)—Effort of a 25-year-old man to save $1.50 ended in death yesterday.

Willie R. Isham of Michigan City had gone to a junkyard in search of a muffler and tail pipe for his car. Owner Al Brinkman offered him a package deal for $2.50, or both for $1 if he removed them himself from an old car.

Isham accepted the cheaper offer. He used two bumper jacks to lift the rear of the auto.

A watchman found Isham crushed beneath the car, which had fallen from the jacks.

JPs Not Compelled Join Pension Setup

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill has ruled that justices of the peace are not compelled to join the public employees' retirement system but could become voluntary members.

The opinion said the county auditor should deduct from salaries the six per cent contribution required of justices who elect to join the retirement system.

Tax Returns Are Expected To Exceed 1955

Some Still Coming
By Mail-Commissioners
Hold Regular Meet

At their regular business session Monday morning in the Court House the Fayette County Board of Commissioners approved the sale of a small amount of metal junk that had accumulated at the county highway department's garage building, to the Wackman Iron and Metal company as the highest of two bidders at a price of $37.75. The other bidder was the Waters' Supply Company which bid $31.00 for the material.

The commissioners also approved the installation of a public pay station telephone booth by the Ohio Bell Company on the Court Street edge of the Court House yard for the benefit of the public. A percentage of the income from the phone is to be paid to the county.

AUDITOR HARRY Allen reported Monday that a total of 2171 classified and personal tax returns had been filed with the county auditor's office up to the close of business Saturday.

He stated that there are still a number of returns mailed by tax payers by the closing date, March 31, which are being received and some other late returns not as yet tabulated to be added, together with some legally deferred payments still to come.

He estimates that when these are all accounted for the total number probably will exceed the total of 2,250 which were filed last year. This year's total in number and amount will be announced as soon as final tabulation is complete.

The only other official business before the commissioners Monday was approval of bills and a few regular routine matters.

Easter Angelus Is Rung Here

Clockwork Operates
St. Colman's Bells

The bells of St. Colman's are ringing again.

On Easter Sunday, after a lapse of a year, the bells at the Catholic Church here rang the Angelus once more. The bells had been stilled when a bell-ringer became unavailable, said the priest, Father Richard J. Connelly.

Now the bells are back on their three-times-a-day schedule—but there still is no human hand at the bell-pull. Instead, a clockwork mechanism rings the Angelus automatically at precisely 7:10 A. M., noon and 6 P. M.

On both Friday and Saturday, when the bell-ringing mechanism was tested, telephones jangled at the police station and the Record-Herald.

One caller asked a newsman here, "Why have they called out Company M?" She was referring to the old custom of ringing a bell to call out the National Guard unit.

FAR FROM being a riot call, the Angelus "is a devotion in honor of the Incarnation of our Lord," explained Father Connelly. "Each consists of three verses, followed by a prayer."

"It takes its name from the first word of the Latin form of the prayer, 'Angelus Mariae,' which means, 'The angel of the Lord declared unto Mary.'"

"That angel announced the most important news ever brought to earth—the fact that the Son of God became man. The Catholic Church wants her people never to forget that fact and reminds them three times a day."

"St. Bonaventure first ordered the Angelus in 1226 and it has been rung and recited by the faithful ever since."

Marilyn Melvin Represents WHS

Miss Marilyn Melvin, 1013 Grace Street, has been elected to represent the freshman student nurse's class at White Cross Hospital in Columbus at the National Convention of Student Nurses in Chicago, the weekend of May 12.

A 1955 graduate of Washington High School, Miss Melvin entered nurses' training at the Columbus hospital last September. Since then she has made the director's list—a sort of an honor roll—twice. Once, she was one of seven out of 53 girls on the list.

A single representative is going to the convention from each of the three classes at White Cross.

Miss Melvin is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Melvin of Washington Ave., New Holland.

Tax Returns Are Expected To Exceed 1955

Hold Regular Meet

At their regular business session Monday morning in the Court House the Fayette County Board of Commissioners approved the sale of a small amount of metal junk that had accumulated at the county highway department's garage building, to the Wackman Iron and Metal company as the highest of two bidders at a price of $37.75. The other bidder was the Waters' Supply Company which bid $31.00 for the material.

The commissioners also approved the installation of a public pay station telephone booth by the Ohio Bell Company on the Court Street edge of the Court House yard for the benefit of the public. A percentage of the income from the phone is to be paid to the county.

AUDITOR HARRY Allen reported Monday that a total of 2171 classified and personal tax returns had been filed with the county auditor's office up to the close of business Saturday.

He stated that there are still a number of returns mailed by taxpayers by the closing date, March 31, which are being received and some other late returns not as yet tabulated to be added, together with some legally deferred payments still to come.

He estimates that when these are all accounted for the total number probably will exceed the total of 2,250 which were filed last year. This year's total in number and amount will be announced as soon as a final tabulation is complete.

The only other official business before the commissioners Monday was approval of bills and a few regular routine matters.
